Running Records

A running record is an informal assessment that helps teachers determine the students' reading level and gain some insight into their oral reading accuracy, fluency, and comprehension (Clay, 2013). Running records are valuable because they offer an opportunity to hear students read, establish rapport, and determine their strengths and weaknesses.

To conduct an assessment, ask a student to read a short passage from the selected trade book. As the student reads, you will

- record errors,
- time the student's reading rate,
- make notes on prosody, and
- assess the student's comprehension.

This will yield immediate data. If the student reads the book excerpt with reasonable accuracy, fluency, and comprehension, you can match the student to the same text during instruction.

The directions that follow will guide you through the process of administering these running record assessments and analyzing the results.

Administering the Running Record Test

To prepare to give a running record test:

1. Copy the running record form and cover sheet for the novel the student will be reading. You also will need a copy of the novel for the student to read from, a timing device, and a pencil. (Optional: Use a recording device to capture the running record conference on an audio file.)
2. Make sure the student is comfortable and relaxed.
3. Provide the student with information about the selected title (use the script provided).
4. Tell the student to read from the paperback novel, then turn on the timing device. You will stop timing at a designated point, but the student will continue to read the rest of the passage silently.
5. Note on the running record form miscues or errors the student makes.
6. Record the total time needed to read the designated portion of the passage.
7. Instruct the student to continue reading the selected excerpt silently.
8. When the student has finished reading, continue testing the student's comprehension.
9. Finish scoring the assessment and determine which book the student will be matched to in book club.

Accuracy

Noting a student's miscues or errors as she reads aloud at least 200 words from the selected book will give you a reading accuracy score that can be used to determine whether the student is independent, instructional, or frustrational. A text that a student reads with 98% accuracy is one that she easily could read independently. A text that a student reads with 90–97% accuracy presents more challenge; she can read the text when instructional supports are provided or when the text is of high interest. A text that a student reads with less than 90% accuracy often causes frustration and typically is avoided.

A miscue is any omission, substitution, insertion, or teacher-assisted word. Miscues are subtracted from the total number of words read to get the total number of words read correctly.

You will use the provided Quick-Sheet Guide for Scoring Running Records.

Fluency

To evaluate a student's fluency score, you will use the provided fluency benchmarks based on national fluency norms (Hasbrouk & Tindal, 2017). If a fifth grader reads at a rate of 97 words per minute correct (WCPM) in the fall, that student then scores at the 25th percentile. Such a score suggests that the student is having difficulty with fluency, which may stem from several causes. Fluency is disrupted when students struggle with word recognition, vocabulary, comprehension, or they are just processing the text slowly. As the norms indicate, a student's fluency should increase throughout the school year.

Comprehension

It is not enough to know whether a student is a fluent reader: you also must determine whether the student understands what he reads. The second part of the running record test will assess the student's comprehension of the passage, both the part read orally and the part read silently.

The student will have the opportunity to score a total of fifteen points on the comprehension assessment. The first five questions examine the student's literal understanding of the text—what the text says. The next three questions explore the student's inferential thinking about character feelings and motives, predictions, and the ability to infer a word's meaning from the context. Each question has a point value, and inferential questions are assigned a higher value than literal ones.

The running record provides the questions, suggested answers, and a place to record checkmarks. We have provided more than one correct answer. It is not necessary for a student to note all of the details about a main character to receive full credit for an answer. Note four special rules for scoring comprehension:

1. The student does not score a point for each item checked.
2. If the student shares an inaccurate detail, note the inaccuracy, but it will not hinder the student's total score.
3. The student will have an opportunity to score a total of three points for telling about the plot: one point for an event from the beginning of the excerpt, one point for an event from the middle, and one point for an event from the end of the excerpt.
4. If a student struggles to give an answer, provide wait time, repeat the question, and provide wait time again. If the student still is unable to give an answer, score the student a zero and move on to the next question.

The student has a good understanding of the text if she earns 75% of the possible comprehension points (Leslie & Caldwell, 2011). The student's comprehension is weak if she earns 49% or less of the possible points. Between 74% and 50% is considered borderline. The book will be an appropriate fit so long as a peer or the teacher provides extra support.

We provide a cover sheet for recording your student's accuracy, fluency and comprehension scores, as well as guidelines for matching students to text.

Quick-Sheet Guide for Scoring Running Records—Sample

Running Record Directions—Quick Sheet

Recording miscues:

- Omission: Circle/cross out the words.
- Insertion: Add a caret and write in the student's response above the word.
- Substitution: Draw a line through the word and write the substituted word above.
- Teacher help: Write a T above the word. (Wait 3 seconds before telling the word.)

Also record:

- Repetitions: Draw a line below/above the repeated word(s).
- Self-Correction: Next to the miscue write SC.

The figure below gives you an example of how to record miscues.

LINE OF TEXT WITH NOTES	TYPE	# OF MISCUES

Special rules:

- A word that is self-corrected still counts as a miscue.
- If a student omits an entire line of text or section of text, count it as only one miscue. Subtract the total number of words skipped from the total word count.
- If a student makes the same error several times and the error does not change the meaning, count it as just one error (this is particularly true for the misreading of names).
- If a student repeats a word or phrase, this repetition does not count as a miscue.
- Omissions of punctuation do not count as a miscue.

Guidelines for Matching Students to Text

ASSESSMENT	RESULTS	PLACEMENT
The student reads the text above grade level.	The student is independent or instructional in all three categories.	Place the student in the text above grade level.
	The student is frustrational in one or more categories.	Retest using the text on grade level.
The student reads the text on grade level.	The student is independent in all three categories.	Place the student in the text above grade level.
	The student is a combination of independent and instructional, or all three categories are instructional.	Place the student in the text on grade level.
	The student is frustrational in one or more categories.	Retest using the text below grade level.
The student reads the text below grade level.	The student is independent in all three categories.	Place the student in the text on grade level.
	The student is a combination of independent and instructional, or all three categories are instructional.	Place the student in the text below grade level.
	The student is frustrational in one or more categories.	Place the student in the text below level and add additional instruction and scaffolding.
The student completes the first book club in the low text and shows little or no progress.	The student continues to score frustrational in one or more categories and is making little or no progress.	Consider an alternate, lower text of the same genre/topic/theme.

Materials Needed:

The student will need a copy of the book being read (Mrs. Frisby and the Rats of NIMH).

The teacher will need a timer (stopwatch setting), scoring sheet, and pencil.

Before Administering

Make sure your student is comfortable and relaxed.

ORAL READING—PROSODY

Tell the student:

You will be reading a section from the chapter book Mrs. Frisby and the Rats of NIMH. Part of the book you will read aloud to me and part of the book you will read silently. When you have finished reading, you will tell me about what you have read. Do you have any questions?

This is a story in which the main character, Mrs. Frisby, is a field mouse who takes care of her four mice children after her husband dies.

Turn on the timing device. Record oral reading miscues.

THE SICKNESS OF TIMOTHY FRISBY 5

Mrs. Frisby, the head of the family of field mice 15 lived in an underground house in the vegetable 23 garden of a farmer named Mr. Fitzgibbon. It 31 was a winter house, such as some field mice move to when food 44 becomes too scarce, and the living too hard in the woods and 56 pastures. In the soft earth of a bean, potato, black-eyed pea and 69

asparagus patch there is plenty of food left over for mice after 81

the human crop has been gathered. 87

Mrs. Frisby and her family were especially lucky in the 97 house itself. It was a slightly damaged cinder block, the hol- 107 low kind with two oval holes through it; it had somehow been 119 abandoned in the garden during the summer and lay almost 129 completely buried, with only a bit of one corner showing 139 above ground, which is how Mrs. Frisby had discovered it. It 150 lay on its side in such a way that the solid parts of the block 165 formed a roof and a floor, both waterproof, and the hollows 176 made two spacious rooms. Lined with bits of leaves, grass 186 cloth, cotton fluff, feathers, and others soft things Mrs. Frisby 195 and her children had collected, the house stayed dry, warm 205 and comfortable all winter. A tunnel to the surface-earth of 216 the garden, dug so that it was slightly larger than a mouse 228 and slightly smaller than a cat's foreleg, providing access, air, 238 and even a fair amount of light for the living room. The bed- 251 room, formed by the second oval, was warm but dark, even 262 at midday. A short tunnel through the earth behind the block 273 connected the two rooms. 277

Although she was a widow (her husband had died only 287 the preceding summer), Mrs. Frisby was able, through luck 296 and hard work, to keep her family—there were four children— 307 happy and well fed. 311

SILENT READING—COMPREHENSION

Tell the student:

Now you are going to read to page 7 stopping after, "...I'll go see what's wrong." When you are finished, raise your hand and I will ask you to tell me about what you read. Do you have any questions?

After the student has finished reading, tell the student:

Now I am going to ask you some questions about what you've read. Pretend that I don't know anything about the story.

Characters:

1. Who is the main character in the story? _____/1

Please tell me a little bit about the main character. _____/1

_____ Mrs. Frisby

_____ A field mouse.

_____ A widow.

_____ Mother of four children.

_____ Fond of corn.

_____ Hard working.

2. Who are the other characters in the story? (2+ characters = 2 pts.) _____/2

_____ Mr. Fitzgibbon (the farmer)

_____ Mrs. Frisby's children (Teresa, Martin, Cynthia, and Timothy)

_____ Mr. Frisby (died the summer before)

Setting:

3. Where does the story take place? _____/1

_____ Mr. Fitzgibbon's garden.

_____ Mrs. Frisby's cinder-block house.

Plot:

4. What is happening in the story? (events from the beginning/middle/end) _____/3

Beginning

_____ Mrs. Frisby and her children live in Mr. Fitzgibbon's garden during the winter.

_____ They live in a cinder-block house.

_____ Mrs. Frisby takes care of the children after her husband died.

_____ January and February are the hardest months to keep the family fed.

Middle

_____ Mrs. Frisby is out in the garden searching for food.

_____ She finds a winter's supply of food hidden in the hole of a stump.

_____ The supply includes eight ears of corn, nuts, and mushrooms.

_____ Mrs. Frisby takes some of the corn home to her children.

End

_____ When she gets home, the children tell her that Timothy is sick.

_____ Timothy doesn't want any breakfast.

_____ Timothy's forehead is burning hot.

5. What is the problem in the book? _____/1

_____ Mrs. Frisby struggles to keep her family fed and safe after her husband died.

_____ January and February are the hardest months to keep the family fed.

_____ Timothy is sick.

Inferential Questions:

6. Is Mrs. Frisby hard working? How do you know? _____/2

7. Why do you think everyone is worried about Timothy being sick? What makes you think that?
_____/2

8. What do you think the word "scarce" means? Why do you think that? _____/2
"It was a winter house, such as some field mice move to when food becomes too scarce, and the living too hard in the woods and pastures" (p. 1).

The Assessment and Intervention Guide for the Read Side by Side Reading Program
Peter Dewitz & Sarah Collinge, 2020

As a companion to the read-aloud and book club guides, this book inspires teachers as they build assessments into their daily instruction. Formative assessments take the lead, empowering teachers to make instructional decisions, place students accurately in texts appropriate to their level and interest, and provide explicit feedback to move learners forward.

This guide outlines reliable, valid, and useful assessment tools, including:

- surveys of reading motivation and interest;
- observational notes;
- conference forms and scripts;
- standardized assessments;
- running records for each book club title (available online);
- checklists;
- rubrics;
- record-keeping forms; and
- a six-lesson unit preparing students for state testing.

The goal of reading instruction is not only to help students gain comprehension skill, but to ignite their interest and motivation to read. This book complements and is essential to the Read Side by Side Reading Program. The intervention strategies give teachers the tools to ensure that all students can succeed with the program, even those who struggle with reading, raising student achievement and increasing students' confidence and competence as readers.

Additional Publications

The Read Side by Side Reading Program for grades 3–6 provides a highly motivating curriculum design, tailored specifically to the needs of intermediate students. A 2018 evidence study proves the impact of the program on reading interest and comprehension success. The curriculum is written by classroom teachers to bring a high-quality and easy-to-implement curriculum package. The pride of the program is the use of award-winning trade books to better prepare students for middle-school reading.
